

House of Sharing

The House of Sharing is a space where all citizens of Fredericia become co-creators depending on their own needs, making them feel supported and productive. By grouping human needs and solutions, the space responds with four main areas with different atmospheres and facilities to enable social interactions, physical activeness and calmness.

The House of Sharing is a meeting point that empowers its citizens to be the creators of the daily events, like a yoga class, a movie screening or a study group. It is a space that brings people together regardless of their age and abilities by connecting them to share their qualities, skills, and interests.

The core of the house is the Engine of Micro-donations in which we created a shared economy of skills and tasks that enhances the sense of community.

Everytime someone makes a donation the city center of Fredericia lights up!

Community Donations

Challenge

How might we, together with citizens, create meaningful communities and support motivation for playful involvement so that citizens, apart from receiving support, feel motivated to contribute to the community themselves and be helpful to others to the extent that they are able to? (Eco system / micro donation)?

Context:

Together with volunteers and other stakeholders we wish to establish a space for individual citizens to engage with others and receive support for minor everyday challenges without becoming a social case. (The support could involve counselling, guidance, etc.). We want to create a culture much like an ecosystem where the individual can both receive and contribute. It should be able to contain everyone, and everyone should have the opportunity, to some extent, to become involved and feel a sense of ownership.
